

A Posy Bowl

A posy bowl requires to be seen from all sides, and if normally looked down on.

The container should not be too tall, although it does not have to be a bowl.

This pretty vase is probably the highest you could use and it still be a posy bowl.

The container should be clean and in good condition. The flower and foliage materials should be in excellent condition with no blemishes or misshapes.

If you are using a glass container you can enhance the effect by using a lining or filling to conceal the stems if you with [use colours that coordinate or promote your flowers][glass beads, pebbles or shells all work well and can help to hold stems in place]. If you do not want to put anything in your glass container but you want something to aid with positioning stems you can make a grid over the top with tape

You can use a range of different containers
